Avondale was instructed by Davis Langdon, project management, to design and build a new service centre on four floors. The scope of works consisted of the refurbishment of the existing air conditioning plant including a new chiller, small power and lighting, Cat 5 data cabling, new telephone system, new partitions and suspended ceilings, all new raised floors, new carpet and laminate floors, new reception area and new tea points to each floor. All areas redecorated with paint and vinyl wall coverings. New security system with 24-hour monitoring. The project was completed by installing 220 workstations and furniture for the meeting room and breakout areas. Avondale handed the project over within the agreed programme.
